ANGELL, Harvey Leon, an Elder who died while filling a foreign mission, was born March 5, 1883, in Salt Lake City, Utah, the son of Theodore J. Angell and Kate Willie. He was baptized in 1891, and moved with his parents to Butte, Montana, where he still lived when he was called on a mission to Great Britain, being set apart for the same Oct. 2, 1907. On his arrival in Liverpool, England, Oct. 18, 1907, (having crossed the Atlantic on the steamship "Cymric"), he was assigned to the Leeds conference and appointed to labor in Halifax. He was somewhat run down through hard work before he left home and appeared to be unwell very soon after reaching Halifax, and in consultation with a physician his case was pronounced typhoid fever. He was removed to the fever hospital at Halifax, where every attention possible was given him and he lingered until Sunday, Dec. 1, 1907, when he died. The remains were properly clothed in linen
